

NETWORKING

Helping multi-location businesses to work as one

SME employees need to feel connected with colleagues especially if they're working from home, in a field force, in a different building or a different part of the country.

Your Avaya IP Office solution makes that essential networking easy. It brings together multiple sites or multiple 'virtual' offices – such as their homeworkers' desks – into one. Everyone can have access to the same voice communications and messaging facilities wherever they are but with control maintained centrally. Running in parallel with an existing data network, it can also improve operations, systems and processes cost effectively.
